Haawi aku i ka haawina mai ka naau

GIVE A GIFT FROM THE HEART

心からの贈り物

When visiting a Hawaiian home, it is considered good manners to bring a small gift for one's host, generally in the form of a food item. As such, parties are usually in the form of potlucks. It is extremely common for guests to take their shoes off before entering a home. A shoe rack on the porch or footwear left outside a doorway on the "lanai".

The offering of food is related to the gift-giving culture. The pidgin phrases "Make plate" or "Take plate" are common in gatherings of friends or family that follow a potluck format. It is considered good manners to "make plate", literally making a plate of food from the available spread to take home, or "take plate", literally taking a plate the host of the party has made of the available spread for easy left-overs.

It is considered gracious to take the plate, or make a small plate. In part, this tradition is related to clean-up, being a good guest by not leaving the mass of left-overs at the party-throwers house and making them alone responsible for cleanup. In more recent times, some people use the Japanese name for such gifts, "omiyage". Others use the Hawaiian word, "makana".

In that tradition Aloha Farms Hawaii has made a few gift baskets that represents the life style of Hawaiian life, we proudly introduce; HAPA, Ohana, Ono & Mahina.

MAKANA - something special for the person the next time you see them.
